

CALL FOR PAPERS

The Geneva Risk and Insurance Review and
St. John's University's School of Risk Management is pleased to announce a

Conference and special issue on “Risk considerations and insurance in developing countries” on February 21 -23, 2020, at St. John's Manhattan campus

The Geneva Risk and Insurance Review and St. John's University's School of Risk Management encourage researchers to submit papers from all areas of research applying to the above theme. Contributions may include research on:

- Risks (health (HIV, disability), agriculture, life, property ...)
- Demand (financial literacy, risk exposure, affordability, risk sharing within families or communities ...)
- Funding (financial institutions (insurance, banking, investment funds), governments, donations, charities ...)
- Distribution system (governments, retail, communities ...)
- Product development (microinsurance, microfinancing, contractual structure, asymmetric information, fraud, transaction processing ...)
- Market Development (policy and regulation, public private partnerships, insurertech, fintech ...)

Please submit proposals for the conference electronically to Mark Browne at GRIR2020@gmail.com, as a file attachment in pdf or MS-Word format by October 1, 2019. Authors of accepted papers will be notified by November 15, 2019 and completed papers will be due by January 1, 2020. Papers presented at the conference will be considered as being submitted for consideration for possible publication in the special issue of the Geneva Risk and Insurance Review and will go through the usual refereeing process.

A $1,000 travel award will be granted per accepted proposal to subsidize the travel costs of one co-author.

For further information on the Geneva Risk and Insurance Review, visit its web site
<http://www.palgrave-journals.com/grir/index.html>